

The Farmer and The Well - Moral Stories in English (PDF)

Once upon a time, in a small village, there lived a kind farmer. He had a big farm with lots of animals and plants. The farmer loved his farm very much, and he worked hard every day to take care of it.

One hot summer day, as the sun blazed in the sky, the farmer noticed that his well, which provided water for his farm, had dried up. He became worried because he didn't have water to give to his crops and animals.

The farmer tried digging the well deeper with his shovel, but it was too hard. He tried using a rope to fetch water from other wells, but it was too tiring. No matter how hard he tried, the well remained dry.

One evening, feeling tired and sad, the farmer sat down near the well and sighed. A wise old man passing by saw the farmer's sadness and asked, "Why do you look so troubled, my friend?"

The farmer explained his problem, saying, "My well has dried up, and I don't know what to do. My crops and animals need water to survive."

The wise old man smiled and said, "I have an idea. Tomorrow morning, bring all your neighbors to your farm. Tell them about your dry well, and together, we can dig a trench from the river to your well."

The farmer thought this was a good idea. So, the next day, he gathered all his neighbors, and they started digging a trench from the river to the well. It was hard work, but everyone worked together, and they didn't give up.

After a few days of digging, they finally connected the trench to the well, and water from the river began to flow into it. The farmer was overjoyed, and he thanked his neighbors and the wise old man for their help.

From that day on, the farmer learned that asking for help and working together with others can solve even the biggest problems. He also realized the importance of being a good neighbor and helping others in need.

And so, the farmer and his neighbors lived happily, knowing that when they came together as a community, they could overcome any challenge that came their way.

The moral of the story is: "When we work together and help each other, we can overcome any problem, no matter how difficult it may seem."