

🐾 Two Friends and One Panther

Peter and Stark were childhood friends. They always loved going into the forest together, searching for adventure.

One day, they went deep into the jungle. Suddenly, from behind the bushes, a black panther appeared. Its glowing eyes froze them with fear.

Peter quickly spotted a tall tree and, without thinking twice, climbed up to save himself. But Stark couldn't climb as fast and was left on the ground.

Stark suddenly remembered his grandmother's advice:
"Wild animals usually don't harm those who seem lifeless."

So, Stark lay flat on the ground, holding his breath. The panther came close, sniffed around his neck, growled a little, and then walked away, believing he was not alive.

When the panther was gone, Peter climbed down from the tree. Smiling nervously, he said:
"So... what did the panther whisper in your ear?"

Stark replied with anger and pain:
"He told me never to forget that a true friend never abandons you in danger to save only himself."

🌟 Moral:

A true friend is the one who stands by you in difficult times, not the one who only thinks of his own safety.